The Duties on Ores,-Senator Ed-The Duties on Ores,—Senator Edmunds recently requested Assistant Secretary Maymard to give his views with regard to the classification, under the tariff act, of ores containing both gold and silver may be less in quantity but greater in value than the lead. In reply Mr. Maymard states that the tariff act imposes a duty of one and a half cents per pound on lead ore, while cres of gold and silver are on the free list, and the practice has been for many years to consider ores containing both gold and silver and lead, where the gold or silver predominates in value, as the gold and silver of commerce, and to exempt them from duty. Lead in ores other than lead ore is not made dutiable, and Mr. Maymard says that a change in the law in this respect, however desirable, cannot be affected by departmental construction, but must await the pleasure of Congress. He incloses with his letter to Mr. Edmunds the opinion of the Director of the Mint, that ores containing both silver and lead, where the latter predominates in value, are commercially and technically silver ores and should be classified as such. In a case where the values of the silver and lead in the ore are equal it is apprehended that duty would be imposed on the article as lead ore under the principle enunciated in section 2499 of the Revised Statutes. munds recently requested Assistant Sec-

Senator Hearst pluckily bid $37,000 for King Thomas, the great yearling son of King Ban and Masuse Hampson, at J. B. Haggin's sale of yearlings on Monday, and was as pluckily outbid by Lucien Appleby of Appleby & Johnson, the bookmakers, who bid $38,000 and secured the prize. After the sale Senator Hearst concluded that the youngster would look well wearing the green and yellow in the Futurity Stakes next year. He hunted up Mr. Appleby and offered him $40,000 for King Thomas. Swatara will arrive here this afternoon, having been telegraphed to proceed here and to arrive not later than 3 o'clock. She will come up as far as the Arsenal, and as there is about twenty feet at low water at the Arsenal wharf it is not unlikely that the sick General will be placed aboard at that point.

Mrs. Sheridan and Colonel Mike Sheridan will be on board the Swatara, the rest of the family and the aides to the General going to Nonquitt by rail. Only two of the surgeous, Drs. O'Reilly and Matthews, will be with the General during the ocean trip, the rest, with Dr. Pepper, of Philadelphia, joining the party at the Sheridan cottage on Friday or Saturday. The Swatara will leave to-morrow morning at high tide everything being favorable and steam right out throughlithe capes, and then by the outside route make direct for Buzzari's Bay, Mass.

It is expected that the trip will be finished by Saturday, as it is generally supposed that the Swatara will not steam over seven or eight knots. Of course the speed of the vessel will be regulated entirely by the condition of the sick man. The physicians are subguine that with the change of air the General will be very much benefited, as during the hot spell of last week his strength was very much reduced, causing them considerable alarm. One of the Red Cross army ambulances may be used in transferring the General to the steamer, and on board a swinging hospital cot will be rigged in the capitain's cabin, which will obviate any unpleasant motion of the vessel.

Mr. Vestimroduced a bill for the bridging of the Missouri River near Ransas City.

Favorable reports will be made upon a large number of bridge bills, and several conference reports were adopted.

Mr. Chandler introduced a bill providing that all regulations allowing projections from buildings and making carriageways across sidewalks, issued by the District Commissioners, shall be printed and promulgated, and no attentions made within thirty days. The bill also provides that no carriageways across adewalks shall be permitted except at right angles to the sidewalk.

Mr. Chandler also introduced a bill abolishing the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting in the Navy Department, consolidating the Bureau of Construction and Repairs and the Bureau of Steam Engineering into one, under the name of Bureau of Constructors or assistant constructors, selected from the members of the Engineer Corps.

The bill also provides for an Assistant Secretary of the Navy, appointed by the President, at a salary of $5,000; also that there sindly be organized a board of detail to consist of three line, officers, whose duty it shall be to advise with the Secretary upon the cruising orders of ships and detail of officers. THE POSTOFFICE QUARTERS.

The Question That May Have to Come Before the Courts.

The owners of the property occupied by the City Poetofice are in an unenviable predicament. The term for which they leased the building ended some time ago, and the owners now wish to remodel it. For this reason it is said the owners told the Postmaster that after July 1 the rent would be $30 a day, about double and shall reserve the failt to incorporate the Washington and Sandy Spring Narrow Gange Railroad and Street Ballway Company, was read and referred to the District Committee.

Messrs, Crisp, Phelan and Anderson of Iowa were appointed conferrees on the part of the House over the disagreeing vote on Senate bill 1669, to construct a bridge over the Mississippi River at or near the city of Natchez.

Mr. Holping demanded the regular order, and the yeas and nays were called on his amendment offered yesterday, providing that hereafter all sales of public lands shall reserve the right to mineral deposits found thereon. The purchaser simply becomes the lessee until Congress legislates upon such lands and provides for their final disposal.

on motion of Mr. Scott, and by than-mous consent, the joint resolution grant-ng leaves of absence for the Gettysburg sclebration was passed.

Mr. Mills moved to go into Commit-ee of the Whole for the consideration of revenue bids.

Mr. Kelley, at that point, arose and said he desired to submit a proposition. In brief his proposition was this: Lay the Tariff bill aside till next December. If the Democratic party were sustained in November then the Republicans would withdraw all opposition to the Mills bill, but, if on the other hand the Republicans were victorious, then the Democrats were not to press consideration of the bill but let it die. He said the St. Louis Convention had approved not only the bill but the action of the members in the House, while the Chicago Convention

House, while the Chicago Convention condemned it in unmeasured terms. He did not make the proposition for a feply, but spoke only for himself.

At, Mills said it was very true that the St. Louis Convention had indersed the action of the House. It was also true that the Chicago Convention had condemned the reduction of taxation and that the issue between the two parties was clearly drawn. The proposition computer of the minority to lay aside the was clearly drawn. The proposition coming from the minority to lay aside the tariff bill was a remarkable one. The duty of the Democratic party was plain, and they intended to press the bill in and out of season until a final vote was taken. If the Republicans had faith in their position they should be willing to stop this unnecessary talk and place themselves on record and agree to an early vote.

early vote,

Mr. Reed said the proposition was an individual one. The Republican party had resolved to consider every item in the bill.

Mr. Breckinridge of Kentucky wauted to have a day named when a final vote on the bill could be had. He invited the Republicans to formulate their platform into a bill and bring it into the House and have a vote taken on the respective Mr. Reed in reply said that it was an absurd proposition to ask the minority to bring in a bill when the majority knew that no minority bill could pass unless it was an abatement of Republican principles.

Mr. Springer offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Ways and Means to bring in a rule for the consideration of the bill providing a vote, at a stated time, on the important items in the bill. Objection was made before the dution was half read and it was with drawn.

Mr. Breekenridge then read from the minority report to show that the Republicans had expressed their intention of bringing in a minority bill.

The Legislative bill was returned from the Senate with amendments, and on motion of Mr. Forney the amendments were ordered to be printed.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Springer in the chair, on the Tariff bill.

On motion of Mr. Mills the paragraph numbered 117, relating to "china, clay or kaoline," was stricken out, and these articles go off the free list.

On motion of Mr. Russell of Massachusetts, rough spectacles and eye-glasses were added to paragraph 117.

On motion of Mr. Randall, the word "unadulterated" was inserted after crude option in paragraph 118.

The paragraph relating to iron and steel cotton ties was passed over until to-morrow in deference to Mr. McKinley's request.

To-morrow will probably be given to the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee, and the citizens of Washington will pay close attention to the proceedings, as the fate of the City Postoffice will soon be known.

The bill reported by the committee to purchase the square corner Fifth and D streets will, unless the sentiment changes, be defeated and the Richardson bill, providing for the appointment of a commission, will be adapted. The popusition to surrounded him did not change his sentiments. He stood at the door of the burgesses while Patrick Henry spoke as Hower wrote, already abreast of the advanced views of that during advocate for the rights of the people. Soon the sindent who had listened to Henry's eloquence had returned to Williamsburg as a member of the Legislature, where he found Washington, Henry, Carey, Randolph and many others.

So great an event was the Declaration of Independence that it has led people to lose sight of the fact that Jefferson served less than six months in the Continental Congress. He had served his mission by giving expression to popular intention in

The opposition to the Richardson bill by several members of the committee is based on the ground that they are as capable of selecting a site as any commission that can be appointed. Congress. He had served his mission by giving expression to popular intention in the shape of the Declaration of Independence, and he resigned his seat and returned to Virginia to enter upon the work of the great reformation. The royal government find introduced victous laws and customs. He was elected to the Legislature and introduced a bill that swept away the laws of primogeniture, and brought down the intense resentment of the aristocratic class. Jefferson was denounced as an enemy of the existing order of things, as one seeking to destroy and Sandy Spring Railroad, which has passed the Senate, was referred by the passed the Senate, was referred by the House to-day to the District Committee. denounced as an enemy of the existing order of things, as one seeking to destroy the people's altars.

The next question to which he directed his energies was the divorcement of Church and State. The pligrim fathers of New England established a system of religion as despotic as that they had fed from, and that before they had left the deck of the fugitive ship. The mambers of the Church alone could vote or hold office. A particular form of religion was prescribed. Treason against Christ was treason against the Government, and vice versa. It was so also in Virginia. Church property had grown to enormous proportions, and the landed gentry espoused the cause of the Church. Jefferson burled his boil of destruction against this powerful alliance in spite of its surroundings, in defiance of the authority of ages and the wealth of a powerful class. The laws which interfered with the freedom of conscience were swept away.

The capital stock of the company is fixed at $200,000 in fifty-dollar shares, and the company is to pay as taxes 4 per cent. of its gross carnings.

Air. Voornees discussed Jefferson's views on slavery and showed that it was under his lead that Virginia eventually made it a felony to import Africans for bondage, and that Mr. Wilberforce, in his career on the other side of the Atlantic, had simply followed the lead of the great Virginian. THE CUT CABLES.

A Rehearing Asked In the Case of the Safe Deposit Company. In the Court in General Term to-day a motion for a rehearing was made by th omplainants in the case of the C. and P. Telephone Company vs. the National Safe Deposit Company, and the District of Columbia, in which a decree was passed June 20, refusing the injunction and dismissing the bill.

Messrs, C. J. U. Gwynn and Nathaniel Wilson represented the plaintiff and set forth the Commissioners had construed the opinion of the court delivered them to mean that they had no power to require electric wires to be laid, and when laid to be kept anywhere in the side-walks of the street between the building line and the curb. The Commissioners had said, it was stated, that under the decision of the court they have no power to authorize the occupation of roadways by electric cables or to authorize the erection of poles. Telephone Company vs. the National by electric capies or to numerize the erection of poles.

Three hundred and ninety-seven subscribers are cut off because the company cannot lay down new cables or crect new poles without the authority of the Company imissioners.

Judge James then stated that the Court had simply said that the Commissioners had power to revoke the right to trench, etc.; that they could not grant an irrevocable right. The Commissioners might, so far as this court is concerned, give permission to put the wires elsewhere. The complainants asked that, in view of the misrepresentation, the case he reheard, and that in the meantime the matter remain in statu one, the wires still cut and main in statu quo, the wires still out and the pavement remain unlaid.

Mr. Perry, who represented the Safe De-posit Company, said that the pavements are being laid under a permit from the Commissioners.

Thurman's View of the Fight. Convanue, O., June 27,-In answer to the question, "What do you think of the Republican nominations?" Judge Thur-Republican nominations?" Judge Thurman said last night: "I consider it a very strong ticket. I have no personal acquaintance with General Harrison," and thought that Senator Sherman's nomination would have been the strong est one, but under the circumstances the ticket as named is probably as strong a one as could have been nominated by the convention. "However, I don't believe it is stronger than its party, and therefore do not see how it can be elected. New York, Indiana and New Jersey are generally Democratic, and the ticket named at Chicago cannot carry any of these States. I have no fears of the result in November. We shall have a Democratic victory."

WAR IN ALASKA. Account of a Fatal Conflict Between PRICE TWO CENTS.

SEATTLE, W. T., June 27.—The steam schooner Leo arrived yesterday from Alaska. Among her passengers were twenty-two miners and prospectors, who report a fatal conflict between two tribes of Alaska Indiana, the Chilcats and Sitkas. The former hold a monopoly for freighting for miners from the coast to the mines, and refuse to allow the other indians to engage in business, and sometimes interfere with white men who attempt to carry in their baggace. They charge exorbitant prices, and make over $7 a day. Two weeks 250 a large party of prospectors started up the Yukon with a tribe of Sitka Indians, under Chief George, as freighters. twenty-two miners and prospectors, who a tribe of Sitka Indians, under Chief George, as freighters.

A combat resulted, in which the chief of the Chilcats was killed. The Indians demanded life for life and chased the Sitkas into Haunes, a white settlement. The whites protected the life of Chief George during the day, but at night be was murdered by the steathy Chilcats. Fearing a massacre, the whites sent to the coast for help, which arrived just in time in the shape of a man of-war. The prospectors say the Chilcats are very insolent and are being urged to more violence by the widow of the murdered chief. They also say that a white man has slim protection from the avaricious and murderous redskins.
